In pimps and po-li - ti-cians The ge-nius is the same; Both raise their own con-di-tions On ot-hers guilt and shame: With a ton-gue well-tipt with lyes Each the want of parts sup - plies, And with a heart that's all dis-guise Keeps his schemes un-known. Se - du-cing as the de-vil, They play the temp-ter's part, And have, when most they-'re civil, Most mis-chief in their heart. Each a sec - ret com - merce drives, First cor - rupts and then con - nives, And by his neigh-bours vi-ces thrives, For they are all his own.
